Johnson Appeals to Petroleum Heads as Lumbermen Agree

Washington, Aug. 29.—An appeal to leaders of the oil industry to accept a revised code of fair competition for oil and thus avoid use of the "big stick" was made by National Recovery Administrator Johnson, behind closed doors today.

After Johnson addressed the oil men began a discussion of the man in a hotel, the oil lead-vision code.

"I hope they will accept it," said Johnson. "I don't want an imposed code, I can help it."

Unless the oil men accept the modified code, however, it is feared that it will be recommended to President Roosevelt for approval today.

AMORY FORCES STALE CODE IN DISFAVOR

Mrs. Eva Whiting NRA Has Big Problem in Dealing With 'Little Fellow'

Washington, Aug. 29 (INS)—An intent, have NRA officials been to get the great basic industries under the blue eagle that the "little fellow," or small employer, has become almost the forgotten man.

Thus far all the concentration has been on the "big fellows"—steel, coal, oil, automobiles, etc.—with great attention being paid to the marginal employer whose profits, if any, have been small in the depression and who is confronted with great increases in overhead if he attempts to raise the code.

How to deal with him is becoming more and more a problem for the NRA.

Unless some solution is found it is conceded a good many small businesses will be forced out of competition, through inability to compete with the bigger units, or public disfavor because of inability to meet the code. Considerable unemployment would result, defeating the very purpose of the NRA.

Various suggestions have been considered, but that has not found much favor is a modified blue eagle adaptation, a "work" strip, for example, indicating the employer's willingness to comply with the code, but not necessarily his economic situation is such that he cannot fully comply.

It is doubted that any employer would want to flaunt in public his inability to observe the code, and thus advertise his economic weakness.

PEACE ROOMS SHOE FIGHT

Washington, Aug. 19 (AP)—A compromise plan, setting up the board of directors of the National Shoe and Shoe Manufacturers Association as the agency through which a fair competition code among the body will be framed, appeared today as the settlement of the dispute between rival manufacturing groups.

Details of the election of the directors and the code committee remained the subject of further discussion between J. H. Hall, executive director of the national association, and Cleveland C. Brown, of St. Louis, counsel for the American shoe manufacturers.

Mr. Brown submitted a memorandum embodying his group's plan for carrying out the general terms of the agreement, which had been previously reached in general.

Mr. Hall and Newton said a general agreement had been reached for setting up an administrative body representing the shoe industry, in accordance with instructions.

The plan, which Newton said had been agreed to by both groups, called for an increase in the membership of the national association board of directors from 22 to 25 members, to be elected from districts set up on the geographical distribution of shoe production.

The board, he said, would be representative of the entire industry, including the manufacturers and the association. From each group would be selected members, one from each district.

Mr. Brown said that the committee to administer the code.

George Bancroft to Portray Role of Broadway's Famous Diamond Personality

By LOUELLA E. PARSONS

Los Angeles, Aug. 10.—Diamond Jim Brady, glamorous figure in the days when Reel's was a smart place to dine and the ladies were plumed hats and were proud of their hips, is being brought to the screen. The tales of this lovable Broadway character are numerous. His name was associated with every famous actress and with every chorus girl along the Great White Way.

Charles R. Rogers has signed George Bancroft to portray Diamond Jim Brady in a picture, "The World's Greatest Scandal." The story is by Michael L. Carr and is a character of "The Scandal," and Harry Joe Brown, who is very much back on the job again, is playing the part of the "World's Greatest Scandal" in the picture.

Laurel Parsons, who is playing the part of the "World's Greatest Scandal" in the picture, is a very much back on the job again, is playing the part of the "World's Greatest Scandal" in the picture.

Cruze, Rogers Reunited
The reunion of James Cruze and Will Rogers has a special significance to those who saw "One Hotsy Daisy." Rogers has been in many pictures since this simple story, but never had he brought more laughs to the screen than in "One Hotsy Daisy." Rogers is playing the part of the "One Hotsy Daisy" in the picture.

I Told You So
Jack Dempsey put both feet down from when Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer made Hannah Williams, his bride, an actress in "I Told You So." The picture is playing at the "The Picture Palace" and "The Picture Palace."

Colleen Hailed in N. Y.
The Hollywood friends of Colleen Moore are going to be very, very happy to hear that New York has hailed "The Power and the Glory" in which she plays the famous lead, as the cinema sensation of 1933. Colleen Moore was long-drawn in conversation following the opening of the picture at the Picture Palace.

Quarrel Over Trade
A squabble went the rounds at the Orvi, where that actor Menjo sneaked home early in the morning. The picture is playing at the "The Picture Palace" and "The Picture Palace."

First-Run Picture Featured With Orpheum Vaudeville
"Sing, Sinner, Sing," first run on the new Loew's Orpheum program, is a movie done in highly melodramatic manner. The theme is jazzy but quite interestingly pictured. On stage is a new bill of excellent vaudeville.

'MISS NEW ENGLAND, '33' & WEETAMOE OUT FOR KING'S CUP

Miss New England
Miss Nettina Rich, 19, of Norton, Mass., was picked as "Miss New England" in the finals in Fall River last night. Look to your laurels, you beauties of many states, for this contender will go far in the battle for honor of "Miss America" in the Atlantic City carnival next month. She is one of seven children.

WEETAMOE OUT FOR SECOND WIN OF KING'S CUP

Despite the defeat administered by the Vanitie in race from Buzzards Bay to Newport, R. I., yesterday, the Frederick H. Prince owned Weetamoe hopes to win the King's Cup race at Newport late today. Breaking of the big Genoa jib allowed the Vanitie to get far ahead before repair could be made. The race today will be sailed over the 30-mile Brenton's Reef course off Newport. Due to departure of Harold S. Vanderbilt for Europe, Mr. Prince will sail his own boat.

SHIELDS WINS OVER ALLISON IN GRUELLING EXHIBITION FINAL

NEW YORKER IN STRONG 4 SET COMEBACK

New York, N. Y., Aug. 19 (AP)—Frank N. Shields, New York City, won his first major tennis championship today by defeating Allison in a grueling four-set match at the U. S. National Tennis Championships.

The victory was a surprise, as Shields, a 25-year-old amateur, was considered an underdog. He had never won a major title before. Allison, a 27-year-old professional, was the defending champion and was expected to win.

The match was a classic battle of attrition. Shields, who is known for his powerful backhand, fought back from a 2-1 deficit in the first set to win it 6-4. In the second set, Allison took a 2-0 lead, but Shields fought back to win it 6-3. The third set was a tie-breaker, with Shields winning 7-5. In the fourth set, Shields won 6-4 to take the match 4-1.

Shields' comeback was remarkable, as he had to overcome a 2-1 deficit in the first set, a 2-0 deficit in the second set, and a 1-2 deficit in the third set. He showed great mental strength and physical endurance throughout the match.

Shields' victory was a major upset and a triumph for the amateur player. It was a testament to his skill, determination, and ability to overcome adversity.

Is Jimmy's Marathon Now

Before you were awake this morning he was up and running around with the morning milk and cream. Before some of us were half awake this afternoon, he was to be running a 25 kilometer race at Beverly against Jimmy DeNar, and Leslie Pawson. When Jimmy Henigan, the Medford Mercury. Who else would have a heart to try a stunt like that? Here's Jimmy at his new job for the Whiting Milk Co.

Manager McKelvie announced that he had protested the victory of the Cuba yesterday on the grounds that umpire Powell misinterpreted the rules in calling Kiki Cuyler safe at the plate in the first inning.

The protest was made by McKelvie's attorney, who argued that Cuyler should have been called out because he had stepped on the pitcher's foot.

McKelvie's protest was denied by the umpire, who stated that Cuyler had not stepped on the pitcher's foot.

The game was resumed in the second inning, with the Cubs leading 1-0.

HOODS PAIR OFF OF ESSEX GOLF

The two remaining father-and-son teams in the first flight of the Essex Golf and Country Club tournament were eliminated this morning as play reached the final round. Dr. C. T. Warren and R. E. Bower of the Essex won their final round match from E. H. Baird and J. P. Nash of Myopia, 3 and 2.

Middleweight on Top

The Revere promotes have arranged an attractive card for Monday night. The card is due to the fact Lou Brullard recently won the middleweight championship by knocking out Jerry Doyle in the fourth round.

ONE RUN LOSING JINX COSTS RED SOX 22 GAMES FOR SEASON

CRS DIVISION HOPES FAST FADING

By DAVID F. FOGAN

Cleveland, Aug. 19.—The Red Sox now enjoy the miserable record of having lost more games by one run than any team in the American League.

They lost their 22d game of the season by the one-run margin when Mel Harder of the Cleveland Indians outpitched Gordon Dwyer pitcher of the Red Sox staff 2 to 1.

A few days ago in Detroit with the losing run on third and the winning run on first, Lou Johnson struck out for the final out with wild flailing of the bat, accompanied by great Indian oaths.

They trailed 3 to 1 in the ninth of the Friday game with one out, but Lou Johnson was hitting up and down off second and Rick Farrell was prowling up and down off first. Later, Dale Alexander strode to the bat, and J. Smoak Jolley was waving four down monsigning bats in the batters' box.

There was furious action in the Cleveland bullpen. Huston warmed up, and so did Hubbard. They were waiting into what had been the powerhouse of the Red Sox attack a year ago, when Mel Alexander and Jolley were the most distant fears into kindling wood.

Now Alexander and Jolley were in the double play and ended the game. Mel Alexander, managing manager, started munched his finger nails at the four lack of his club last spring, but munched all the way up to his right elbow at a late hour last night and will probably be playing around base left for the first time keeps up, or hitting fungoes down Euclid ave. until the man with the white coat comes and takes him away.

"Now who," said Mel Alexander this morning, "would expect a ball player to be bitten by a snake?"

"Well," says J. who with a keen sense for news, "who would expect a dog to be bitten by a ball player, though ball players certainly do some pranking."

Now that that "out" who "drew the radio out of the Indians' hands" is dead, says Mel Alexander, "but Paul Anderson, one of the most promising young pitchers in the game, was bitten by a dog in the training camp and has suffered all year."

I think he's right now and he's going to start against the Indians this afternoon."

Moreover, and I am repeating this for the twentieth time, "I don't know Alexander and Jolley have been suffering from the blight or housemaid's knee, or one in their shoulders or something of the kind, and they have not been hit by their own weight in the puffs."

FIGURES UNDER KNIFE.
The growing loss of this morning when George Figuras was operated upon by Philip Kreucher in Chicago. As was reported by the Boston Evening American a few days ago by the old newspaper now known here and far as the Sox, the boy reporter, "Figuras will be out for the rest of the season."

And even sadder than that, his long and honorable career may have come to an end. Figuras is recognized as one of the most promising pitchers in the game with a veteran like Figuras, an elbow operation is a tricky thing at best.

If he has pitched his last game, he has left with a big hole in his mouth. On Aug. 14 he pitched a double. Detroit held 10 in three hits in six innings on nothing but brains and cold courage and the whole kit and kaboodle of them were used for the hospital to visit the popular, uncompromising "Pip."

To continue along on the sad and sadder, Rhodes pitched well enough to win. He held Cleveland to seven hits. Three of them were infield singles and two more of them were teases that were too far out for the infielders and too far in for the outfielders.

SIXTH UNLUCKY FRAME.
The damage occurred in the sixth, after Roy Johnson had scored the lone home run in the second on a double and two infield outs. Harder led off the sixth with a sharp single to left field. It was forced at second by a seizer named Caswell.

Caswell plopped a slide down single over short and Averil scored Caswell with a hard hit to short center. Caswell scored the winning run on Yonah's long fly to center field.

There are four more games to be played here—a single game today and a doubleheader tomorrow—a single game on Monday. The Red Sox must win the majority of the games played here if they are to stay in the running for a first division place.

Your amateurish reviewer seems new of a startling nature today. "This Cleveland club is a jinx," said Mr. Phil. It is a traveling secretary, who travels and how.

"Now just a moment," I interpose, "just one moment, if you please. As I travel from village to village, it seems to me that there is a jinx after all, and I hope you do not wish to tell me that there are seven jinx clubs in the American League."

"No," says he, "there are only a few for me are away from the Red Sox. I mean the Sox. So I said Odeh, and said, and I thought you own one, and so I left him with a scorp about six inches.

Kirouac, Lynch Duel Guilford and Wright

By BILL GRIMES

Two championships, four open tournaments, a medal and match play invitation and a couple of four ball league matches are in the golf calendar for next week.

Beginning with Willie Duffy's 18 hole exhibition tomorrow afternoon when John P. Guilford and Fred Wright will take on Eddie Rourke and Joe Lynch, the noble widders will be on the jump every day.

On Monday, the cream of the New England professional and a few of the outstanding amateurs will engage in a 36-hole medal tournament for the New Hampshire senior championship at the Seaside Country Club.

Due to the presence of Jesse Guilford, the 18th open, the New Hampshire Golf Association has decided to hold its annual tournament at the Seaside Country Club.

It is a capable and successful promoter and therefore it is almost an even bet that Presidential will break Highland's three-day record of 237.

Ed Coughlin will be at Maynard on Friday and Saturday, glad to receive visitors and with a prize for every entry the field will be a fine one.

Den McCormick, the N.H. professional, states that the course is in fine condition for the N.H. open. Some of the fairways are burnt, but the greens are perfect and the popular Granite State layout will offer an opportunity for some low scores.

(CADDIE'S CLASSIC ON)
The caddie will rather at the Seaside Country Club on Tuesday for their annual championship which is one of the most interesting of all titles events.

As usual, the field will be without a defending champion for Leo Marquardt is over but there are any number of youngsters who are capable to challenge Unicorn in the event.

Pres. Charles H. Crooks, of the Massachusetts Golf Association, has set a prize of $100 for the winner of the Seaside Country Club tournament.

ECONOMIC LAWS State Streeters Again Close Week

State Streeters again closed their market week under the impression that some more stability was in the air as they were about to cross the threshold into new high levels. Doubtful Market

By LEWIS HANEY Professor of Economics, New York University

New York, Aug. 19.—One of the most serious and disconcerting conditions today is the tendency to belittle the science of economics and deny the existence of economic laws.

Some have said that because economists differ in their definitions of "wealth," "capital," "rent," etc., they are at sea and know nothing.

It is unfortunate that some economists differ from others in the definitions of terms which they think it best to adopt. This is a confusion in the public mind.

There is also much disagreement among physicists, biologists, and mathematicians. But we do not throw these sciences out of the window on that account.

This attitude toward economics makes it possible for persons who have no definitions at all to set up an "economics" and to propose or condemn it even impossible things. They confuse cause and effect, let us suppose, and plunge from one error to another.

Where is "technology" now? Where is the "new era of 1900"? Why did the depression get worse and worse despite high wages and huge supplies of credit by the reserve board?

What has become of "free silver," the single tax, and the host of communist experiments of the past?

It is said that economics is full of contradictions and inconsistencies. This is true of the thought of some economists just as it is of all sorts of scientists. But it is that any reason for rejecting economic science?

There is a large and growing field of economic activity which is not full of contradictions. Where any reason for rejecting economic science? There is a large and growing field of economic activity which is not full of contradictions.

Some seek to belittle economics as being out of date, and refer to it as "time-worn theories." How should the time-worn theories of astronomy and chemistry? They are even older. And older than these are theories of Sociology, government, conduct of industry and paper money.

Anyhow, are principles which are not the test of the world, but only the new hypotheses if there are any good?

How have never been able to "predict" prices successfully, and economists tell us we should not waste time and energy in trying.

No one can deal successfully with economic problems unless he acts according to economic laws. To ignore these laws or to try to run against them shows an ignorance of the discipline in science. It is bound to fail of sustained success.

Eyes of N. Zealand Watching Code Even far off New Zealand is watching President Roosevelt's NRA program and their interest is in the relation of world prices.

At least that was the message brought in from the Ministry of Finance in New Zealand today when it was said that the minister, when he was with other ministers, was of a New Zealand party by Major Cullen.

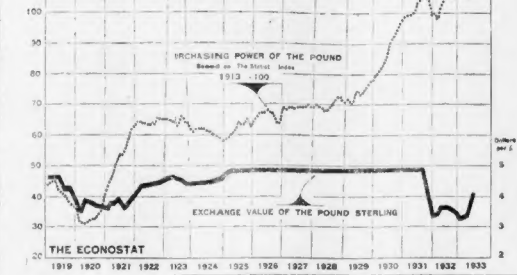

"President Roosevelt is a great man engaged in a great task," said Prime Minister Forbes. "I am confident that his program of reconstruction will be successful in returning prosperity to the United States, and with it to the remainder of the civilized world."

Devalued Money Eases Debts

INTERNAL AN EXTERNAL VALUE OF THE POUND

THE ECONOMIST

By JOSEPH STAGG LAWRENCE Editor The Economist. This is another of a series of reports and charts on inflation, showing special emphasis upon the experience of other nations during the post-war period and the last four years of depression and partial recovery. To what extent these experiences have been peculiar and do not yield any valuable lessons to the American. In fact, it may be said that the American experience is a unique one, and that no appropriate comparison can be made with any other nation. However, there are points of similarity which are worth noting. In the case of Germany and the United States, the inflation was caused by the need of financing the war. In the case of the United States, the inflation was caused by the need of financing the war.

BUSINESS NEWS

LEWIS HANEY B. C. FORBES FRANK H. McLEON SPECTATOR'S COMMENT

New York, Aug. 19.—Although the old solidarity is gone, thanks to the dissolution of 1911, some Standard oil companies have been able in the last year or two to effect family reunions with the government's blessing.

The business of Standard Oil of Kansas said its refinery, along with pipe lines and inventory, to the Standard Oil Co. of Indiana. In a strict sense, this deal did bring the two companies together, although it marked the passing of a century of a large part of the Kansas company's history.

The latest deal, effected only a few months ago, was the sale of the Standard Oil Co. of Indiana to the Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey. This deal was effected primarily in production of petroleum products.

At the start of the week there was the uncertainty as to whether the market would be more or less lifted, but Wednesday the peg was taken off and there was a sharp rebound in both grains and shares.

The sudden decline on Wednesday coincident with a break in grain and a sharp recovery in the stock market, when certain stocks, especially oil stocks, were sold off, evidenced an otherwise dull market.

Except for these signs of life, the market continued to be dull. Stocks were obviously influenced by the fact that the market was still in the hands of the oil companies.

The grain market celebrated the termination of the "oil" era. Apparently the chief basis for a market for a single day's fluctuations was the oil market. Stocks came tumbling after the grain market.

The bond market trading showed a slight recovery. The market was generally steady. Commodities were generally steady. The market was generally steady.

MANY VOLUNTEER TO HELP MRS. FRISBY'S DIVORCE FIGHT.

Above snapshot was taken yesterday, showing some of the people who have come forward to help Mrs. Frisby in her struggle to obtain divorce evidence against her husband, Congressman Horace Frisby. "I want 10,000 witnesses," says Mrs. Frisby, "who will take the stand and swear that Mr. Frisby tried to flirt with them. I also want suspicious husbands. If you have any fur coats or jewelry which might have come from Mr. Frisby, one of our Defense League trucks will be glad to call for it. I can use all the evidence of this nature that you care to give. Each and every person who cooperates in this great cause will receive 'Main trouble with the young people of today,' says an editorial, 'is that they're irresponsible.' Sure, and the trouble with adults is that they are responsible."

One more elucidator always shines. Lives to begin again at the beginning.

THE OLD SONGS ARE THE BEST
The economic system of America has a good many faults. One of the most serious is the fact that the world has never seen a more successful one. —Andrew Nelson.

So that as it may, many a song is sung because he hasn't got an idea in his head.

JESSIE'S HAVING A LOT OF FUN
(Lamar, Mr. Democrat.)

Jessie (Polar Bear) Swift has been having a lot of fun the past day or two with a lot of the boys around town. Some way the boys got the notion that Jessie was going to be married. They argued he ought to be married. Any way, Jessie fell in with the gossip, and began to talk about getting a marriage license. Then he went to the recorder's office and persuaded Recorder Perry to give him a big official envelope and put a blank marriage license in it.

Jessie's been carrying this formidable looking envelope around with him and letting out mysterious hints. The boys are darned near ready to carry him.
